President Hitt urges 'Give 'til it feels good'

by John Hitt

De Toqueville, the French nobleman who toured America in the early part of the past century, noted that Americans were unique in their ability to recognize a civic or community need and form compacts or organizations that addressed the need. We see this American trait at work today in the United Way. Groups of volunteers meet to assess community needs and the agencies seeking to meet them. These volunteers review proposals from agencies, evaluate their current and past performances, project the need for their services in the coming year and then allocate funds to the agencies.

UCF faculty members and employees can easily be part of this quintessentially American experience in helping one another by donating to the Central Florida United Way through the Florida State Employees Charitable Campaign. Payroll deduction can make this process virtually painless. The United Way volunteer allocation panels assure its effectiveness in getting our donations to the areas of greatest need, or you can designate the recipients of your donation.

As a member of the board of directors of the United Way, I can vouch for its efforts to help those most in need and hold overhead to a minimum. Through our volunteer allocation panels, we insist that the 78 United Way agencies do likewise.

I am often asked, "What should I give?" Martha and I have been blessed with the capacity to give at the leadership level, and we have done so for some years. But only you can determine the right amount for your pledge or donation, for you alone know your capacity to give, which is determined by personal means, financial obligations, and other charitable commitments. That said, it is also true that almost all of us can participate at some level. Even two dollars per pay period will enable an agency to help someone in need. Additionally, donating that two dollars per paycheck or more will also enroll you in a drawing to receive a number of prizes, including a UCF parking decal valued at $110.

The whole community was impressed by the UCF community's response last fall. Yet we can do much more. If we all give something, this year's campaign will be an even greater success. The old saying is "Give 'til it hurts." I think we might better say "Give 'til it feels good!"

United Way Midway Report

The mid-report numbers for the UCF Florida State Employees' Charitable Campaign for United Way reflect 26 percent of the employees participating thus far. Contributions total $45,707 toward the university's goal of $90,000, lower than the 1995 mid-report which had 31 percent participating with $56,270 given. But over 40 units have yet to report any figures because they have just begun their departmental campaigns.

Early campaign leaders included University Relations and the Division of Administration and Finance, which to date have 82 percent and 51 percent participation. Academic Affairs/Provost's division leads the units in total dollars contributed to date with $10,322. Departments that have completed their campaigns and have 100 percent participation are Human Resources with $1,584 and Veteran Affairs with $706. Three large units have shown Barrios and Guillermo will show paintings, prints, and drawings. Ruiz will exhibit prints and drawings. Chauche, Palma, and Biarte are photographers. Exhibition will run through Oct. 25.

• "J.J. Dodge and Hiram Williams: Two North Florida Master Painters" — These two octogenarians, working now at the height of their creative powers, continue to amaze with the unity and authority of individual visions. Hiram Williams is a State of Florida Arts Hall of Fame member, as well as retired emeritus professor from the University of Florida. • "Established and Emerging Visions: Paintings by Arthur Rayford and Sculptures by Jim Casey, Ed Love, and Nell Moton" — Works by two established artists and two emerging artists who they have recommended. Showing Jan. 6 through Jan. 31. Reception held Friday, Jan. 10 from 6 to 8 p.m.

• "Women, Courage and Resistance: Ravensbruck Concentration Camp Memorial Installation" — UCF Art Department and Instructor Julie Terwilliger curated this memorial exhibition which celebrates the courage and creative visions of the inmates of the NAZI's infamous concentration camp for women. Terwilliger supplements her own painterly homages with a multimedia presentation which is both a work of commemoration and serves to educate about terror, oppression and resistance. Showing Feb. 10-March 7. Reception held Thursday, Feb. 13, from 5 to 7 p.m.

Diversity Week set for full week of activities

UCF will hold its fourth annual Diversity Week activities, Oct. 13 - 19. The spirit of the celebration, which encourages efforts on and off campus to foster understanding and acceptance of varying cultures and differences in people, is captured in this year's theme, Diversity: A Transforming Power.

Those on campus and individuals from the Central Florida community have come together to present this unified event that was organized by UCF's Office of Diversity Initiatives headed by Valerie King and campus organizations, offices and units.

The Diversity Initiatives Office was established in 1994, two years after President John Hitt's arrival. Hitt identified "becoming more inclusive and diverse as one of the university's five goals."

"With this mission in mind, our office has taken on a leadership position in helping the campus to further develop in the area of diversity," King said.

The mission of the office is to foster a campus culture that values and manages differences, enhances productivity and affords all individuals with opportunities to realize their full potential.

The opening ceremony for Diversity Week on the main campus will be at 10 a.m., Oct. 13 near the Reflecting Pond. Hitt and Provost Gary Whitehouse will give opening remarks as well as Diversity Committee co-chairs Martha Leu, College of Education, and Justina Gonzalez-Marti, Multicultural Student Services.

Hispanic Latin Fiesta, a folkloric dance group, will perform. In addition, a colorful, large scaled, "mystery" art project by students representing various organizations will be unveiled "piece by piece."

During the rest of the week, there will be featured speakers, including Greg Louganis, an Olympic diver who won his first silver medal in the 1976 Olympics, and at the age of 24 became the first man in 56 years to receive two Olympic gold medals in diving by winning both the platform and springboard events. He has recently published his autobiography, "Breaking the Surface," a book that openly addresses his sexuality and the effect the AIDS virus has had on his life.

Other scheduled events includes the International Fair, an event hosted by the International Students Association that features food, exhibits, cultural dancers, music and clothing native to over 30 countries; comedy night featuring Chris "Crazy Legs" Fonseca, a comedian with cerebral palsy; Central Florida Sings, an event featuring gospel, jazz, folk spirituals and other music from varying ethnic and cultural backgrounds; Serenade Under the Moon, romantic Latin-American performances by accomplished musicians and dancers; and the Community Festival, featuring groups from the campus and general community who will perform cultural dances and songs. Among those performing will be children from several of the area's elementary schools.

A play titled, "In the Well of the House," a drama by Charles Christopher Mark, will open prior to Diversity Week on Oct. 11 and run until Oct. 20. The play gives a fresh look into the life of Congressman Adam Clayton Powell Jr., an African-American who was barred from Congress in January 1967, then reelected in a special election in 1968. Clayton was responsible for an increase in minimum wages, establishing student loan programs and social security reforms. He was seen as an advocate not only for African-Americans, but for all Americans. Ticket prices vary from $3.75 to $8.50. For ticket information call 823-1500. The theatrical performance features television and film star Gilbert Lewis as Congressman Powell. All other Diversity Week activities are free and all are open to the public.

Activities will also take place at the Daytona Beach Campus. "Open Your Mind to the Changing Nature of Education" is the theme for Diversity Week activities at the Daytona campus. The campus activities will take place on Oct. 17 and includes a panel discussion reflecting the campus' diversity theme. The discussion is scheduled from 9:15 to 10:30 a.m. in building 36, room 10. A workshop on cultural stereotypes will take place from 10:45 a.m. to noon in the same location. UCF Brevard is sponsoring a cultural diversity festival for students who attend classes at their campus.

For information on the events at UCF's main campus, call 823-6479, and for information on events at the Daytona Campus, call (904) 255-7423.

PEOPLE

Employee of the Month

Name: Richard Metzger

Title: Superintendent for Grounds

Department: Physical Plant, Campus Services

Job description: UCF people dubbed him the "Duke of Dirt" because he's always called when there is anything that needs to be done about the grounds. He supervises more than 30 people and oversees all of the grounds maintenance, irrigation, Maxicom computerized irrigation (which he was instrumental in bringing to campus four year ago and has phased in), renovation of grass and upgrading the turf, and screen parking with berms. He serves on review boards for new buildings and has input as to location, landscaping and irrigation. He is also the recycling coordinator of Knight Cycle, which is an enhanced recycling center at UCF. He has pulled several of his workers from their regular duties and dedicated them to recycling. He also oversees the subcontractor for trash and the dumpsters. He heads up a five-person hurricane team, that stays on campus during any serious storms and begins immediate clean up. He was one of the first trained at UCF as a quality coach. He since has developed a zone program, which divides the campus into eight zones with a senior groundskeeper over each zone. Three supervisors touch base with each group, but allows each to maintain their zone as they see fit.

Length of service: He started as a groundskeeper at 18 years old in 1977 at UCF, but left the university after working up to a supervisor to run his own company in 1984. He returned to UCF in 1992 at his current position.

Background: He was born in Lake Worth, Fla., but has lived in Orlando since he was four years old. His mother, Mary Morgan, the area supervisor for Building Services, still lives in the home he was raised in at Bonnevill subdivision near the university. He graduated from Colonial High School. He and his wife, Sharon, have been married for 13 years and have a 5-year-old daughter, Amanda, who is a student at the same Bonnevill Elementary he attended as a child. During the years he didn't work for UCF, he ran his own landscaping business that did all of the landscaping for the Central Florida Research Park.

Hobbies: He is a song leader and soloist at his church and bowls on Friday nights.

Quotes: "I worked as a groundskeeper for years, so I know what's it like. If my workers need something to do their job, they know I'll get it for them. I try to guide them and let them take pride in their own work."

Greg Louganis featured speaker at UCF

Olympic champion, Greg Louganis will be the featured speaker for Diversity Week Wednesday, Oct. 17, 7 p.m. at the Student Center Auditorium.

Louganis is more than an outstanding athlete; he is a role model for millions. Greg has recently published his autobiography, "Breaking the Surface," and it has become one of the best-selling books ever written by an athlete. In his autobiography, Greg openly addresses his sexuality, his difficulties in the past and his hope for the future despite having contracted the AIDS virus. He currently delivers speeches for many organizations, including youth clubs, drug and alcohol rehabilitation groups, universities, associations and organizations for the dyslexic.

His career as an athlete began at age 9. By age 16, he had won his first Olympic medal in the 1976 Olympics. At age 24, he became the first man in 56 years to receive two Olympic gold medals in diving by winning both the platform and springboard events. He became the first man to win double gold medals for diving in two consecutive Olympics. Greg's diving accomplishments did not stop there. He has won the World Championship five times and has held a record number of National Championship titles. At the 1988 Olympic Games, he was awarded the Maxwell House/United States Olympic Committee Spirit Award as the Olympic Athlete who had best exhibited the ideals of the Olympic spirit, demonstrated extraordinary courage and contributed significantly to the sport.
